Corepoint Health and Interface People Announce Partnership for Complete MEDITECH Integration Solution

FRISCO, Texas – September 9, 2010 – Corepoint Health, a leader in healthcare integration software, and Interface People (IPeople), a leading software and services firm specializing in MEDITECH integration, announced today a partnership which offers a complete bidirectional interfacing solution for MEDITECH hospitals. This partnership leverages their unique interfacing expertise and significant MEDITECH customer base to deliver a unified solution to further simplify the complexities of healthcare integration.

Corepoint Integration Engine is a robust integration platform used to manage interface connections and facilitate communication of electronic data between healthcare vendor applications. For hospital information systems such as MEDITECH, an integration engine is particularly helpful with interface monitoring and management.

Corepoint Health and IPeople have worked together for over a year to provide a bidirectional integration solution exclusively for MEDITECH hospitals. IPeople provides an interface solution that connects a MEDITECH hospital information system to Corepoint Integration Engine as well as the programming needed to establish the connections. Corepoint Health provides the interface engine and services to manage the data mapping from various ancillary and EMR applications to MEDITECH, including the web-based console to manage the integrated environment efficiently.

Working together, Corepoint Health and IPeople provide a complete spectrum of integration to meet the needs of MEDITECH hospitals. The offering is an extensive package of software and services. The combined expert capabilities of IPeople and Corepoint Health will streamline the data flow between applications as well as connect the referring community efficiently and productively.

"Corepoint Health is pleased to announce our partnership with IPeople." said Phil Guy, chief executive officer of Corepoint Health. "IPeople is a leader in the health integration industry and provides valuable solutions customized for MEDITECH hospitals. Together, we deliver a complete and flexible interface solution for organizations using MEDITECH. Our combined offering is a streamlined, tested solution for many MEDITECH hospitals."

"IPeople is delighted to have a seamless partnership with Corepoint Health," said Jenny Blue, chief executive officer of Interface People. "Bringing together IPeople's bi-directional HL7 feeds and Corepoint Integration Engine delivers a packaged offering for MEDITECH hospitals that is unparalleled. Our offering provides real, immediate value as more hospitals need the expertise and robust solutions to meet their growing interface demands in a productive, complete manner."
